DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2, 5 and 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 2: absent the recited limitations, i.e. that the code is decodable, the encoding method of claim 1 would have no disclosed or apparent application, hence no further limit to claim 1 is apparent.

Regarding claim 9: without commas preceding and following "which can be read by a computer and/or a microprocessor", it is not unambiguously recited that the inventive program instructions are contained within the "data storage means".

Regarding claim 10: without a comma following "which can be read by a computer and/or a microprocessor", it is not unambiguously recited that the inventive program instructions are contained within the "data storage means".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

A necessary recitation of a computer-readable storage medium carrying the program instructions is not provided in the claim.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1, 3, 4 and 6 are allowed.
6. Claims 2, 5, 7, 9 and 10 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
